

I would like to give my support to the BPL initiative. I live in an area that cannot get DSL (distance and fiber to the curb problems) and a cable company that won't upgrade the network. I and many of my townsfolk have zero broadband capabilities. This may be the only avenue until the Teleco improve their technology or cable companies show a commitment towards broadband. This solution may not be a perfect solution but could be the thorn that get the other ventures moving again.
